SOME OF CO. K TO COME BACK

Army Test Too Severe For Some; Boys Enjoy Camp Life and Food.

BY JOHN H. REGAN.

Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex., May 15.—Company K, after three meals of corned beef and accessories arrived safely at San Antonio. The trip from El Paso, with 97 enlisted men and three commissioned officers, was enlivened by the usual poker parties and dice tournaments.

The majority of the boys were in civilian clothes, expecting new outfits upon meeting the U. S. army test. The test is a rigid one and some of the men will be returned to El Paso. This is especially pleasing to a number of married men who are with the company, and whose terms of service with the militia are still long.

Expect Hard Work.
A large number of the regular members of the company have been in the army before and for this reason, the usual enthusiasm of a national guard movement was missing. Even the recruits seemed to realize that Fort Sam Houston means hard work and the last word in discipline.

A mother of one of the younger recruits wired her boy while en route telling him not to enlist in the regular army as such an act would cause her grievance.

Goldman the Jester.
W. H. Goldman, a high private, and at one time a successful jitne driver, is the chief jester of the company. His objects to foreign service on the grounds that his mother reared him for the jitne and not for the military service.

Business Firms Represented.

A good many of the business houses of El Paso are represented among the young men who enlisted at El Paso. Among the firms represented are the following: waterworks: F. W. McQueen, of Broadview & Lufkin; S. M. W. Huddleston, of the Mayfield Building and Improvement company; Joe Hernandez, of The El Paso Electric & Light company; the El Paso Electric railway; Lee Evans, of Primm & Co.; G. M. Revere, of the People's National bank; Allen Jones, of the Texas & Pacific; J. W. Clarence Rand, of the Texas Ditchville company; Walter Jones, of the Mines and Smelter Supply company.

The El Paso chamber of commerce has started a company fund of $200, were general enthusiasm and the majority of them said that El Paso is really interested in us after all."

Many of the newer men are hopeful that their positions will be held for them during their service to the nation.

Sunday many of the militia boys attended the churches of San Antonio in honor of "Mothers day" and though all time is being devoted to building up efficiency, part of the day was given for the sentiment by the officers.

The El Paso company is the largest in the fourth infantry, having more than 100 men. The company is a well balanced one as to men, and though the men will not be uniformed until today they put up fair form on the field.

Plenty of Work and Good Food.

Instead of going to Fort Sam Houston to get food, the soldiers are with his men and the high discipline have been strict from the start, the captain and his officers evidently have the interest of the men at heart.

It is understood that the militia will become the Texas volunteers today.

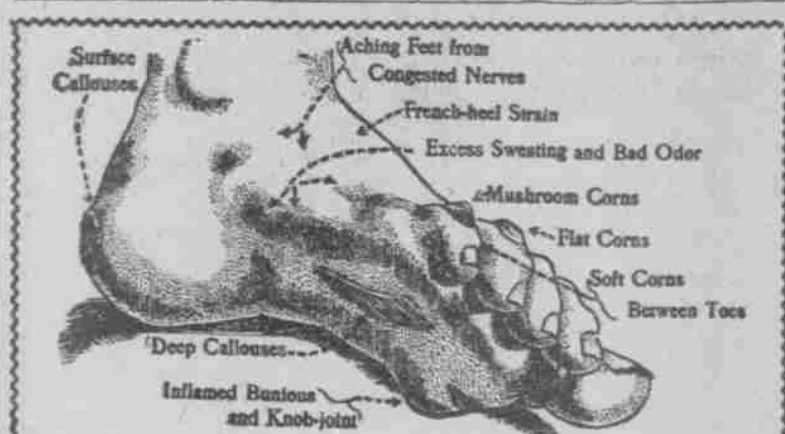

A battalion of the Fourteenth infantry arrived in El Paso Monday morning and was transferred to the El Paso and Southwestern line for Columbus.

COMPANY K'S FUND IS UP TO $132 PER MONTH

Contributions for the company fund for company K, Texas national guard, are being received at a rapid rate. Approximately $260 per month is required by the military committee of the El Paso chamber of commerce.

The conditions regarding the fund are that the money will be disbursed for the comfort of the men at the discretion of the officers. Maj. Stevenson, battalion commander, will supervise and inspect the accounts.

The city of El Paso will contribute $25,000, Mayor Lester having the subscription list for that amount.
